We cordially invite you to the International Intensive Care Course for German, Spanish and Polish doctors.

Keeping pace with the rapid changes in evidence-based critical care medicine is a difficult prospect for specialty-trained intensivists. The focus of this course is to highlight recent important evidence-based advances in the practice of modern critical care medicine and provide those who attend with tangible strategies they can immediately implement to improve their practices.

These sessions will test your clinical reasoning and offer strategies for incorporating, synthesizing and applying core critical knowledge to your intensive care practice.

The following intensive care problems and techniques will be addressed in this comprehensive course:

- Extracorporeal Life Support
- Care of post-cardiac-arrest patients
- ECMO
- Mechanical ventilation and patient-ventilator interactions
- ARDS
- Major Trauma Management
- Hemorrhagic shock and massive transfusion protocols
- Point-of-care ultrasound utilization in the ICU
- Neurological critical care
- Basic infectious diseases
- Sepsis
- Management of acute renal failure and renal replacement therapy
- Metabolic and nutritional issues in the ICU
- Consequences inappropriate feeding
